 • (BREAK-A-WAY) comes with 2 page insert, complete history and rare pics; This Troup were a local garage band from smalltown Indiana that existed from 1966 until '68. They released a scant of two 45's, and are mainly appreciated for their boss teen-punker I'm Going Away. Although both singles were released in early 1968, they echo back to the pure garage sound of the mid 60's. The group disbanded soon after the records came out and both 45's are sought after among garage collectors.

• (BREAK-A-WAY) 4 prev. unreleased 1967 recordings from the master tapes by german 60's band; spanish only LP got lately released on Wah Wah Records. Overall, these four previously unreleased numbers recorded in Madrid's CIMA studios in 1967, adopt a low-down gutsy blues-soul approach, much closer to Stax than the putown pop sophistication of Motown.
