SALES NOTES

Every Saturday night for a quarter-century, Janette Carter has taken the stage at the Carter Family Fold in Hiltons, Virginia, making good the promise she made to her father, Carter Family patriarch A.P. Carter, to keep his music alive. Janette sings in the forceful and soulful Appalachian style pioneered by her mother, Sara Carter. She has made very few records in her career, but now Bear and the 'Howdayadoo' LP from 1973. As you would expect, the core of the repertoire is Carter Family songs, but she also includes a few that she wrote herself, as well as several songs that the Carter Family performed, but didn't record. The instrumentation is spare and to-the-point, and the focus is on Janette's lovely autoharp playing. Carter Family fans ... and there are more all the time ... will love this collection, as will anyone who has spent a Saturday night in Janette's company at the Carter Family Fold.
