- Especially for this anniversary: The first compilation of British R&B Bands, featuring the sound of the Hammond Organ

SALES NOTES

There is no groovier or funkier sound than the B-3 Hammond organ. If any instrument deserves a tribute on its 70th birthday, it's the Hammond. Rather than try for a complete cross-section of Hammondmeisters, we've opted to showcase the instrument in the hands of 1960s British rock bands, when it really came into its own. And so here are some of the very, very best examples of ORGAN-izing played by some of the UK's top practitioners. You might not know every name or every song, but you can be assured that they represent the best and most innovative and most funky organ sounds you've ever heard in one place at one time!

Instrumental tracks include: Spencer Davis Group (with Stevie Winwood), Stevie's Groove; Brian Auger's Ellis Island; Manfred Mann's One Way; Georgie Fame's The In-Crowd; Ten Years After's Adventures Of A Young Organ; Alan Price's Critics Choice; Free's rare Guy Stevens Blues; Steampacket's Holy Smoke; The Small Faces' Grow Your Own, The Nice's Sombrero Sam, and many others.

Critics choice? You bet!
