- Sun 209 was Elvis Presley; Sun 210 was Elvis Presley; Sun 211 was Malcolm Yelvington.
- He was present at the creation of the Sun Sound, and made some gloriously undervalued rockabilly and western swing records for Sun.
- We've combined all the songs that he recorded for Sun, including many unissued versions, with his ultra-rare Meteor record.
- In other words, all the great 1950s stuff in one place.
- The booklet includes a biography by Sun expert Martin Hawkins.

SALES NOTES

Malcolm Yelvington was in at the creation of rockabilly music – he was recording at the same time as Elvis Presley, and his first disc sat alongside Presley's in the Sun Records catalog. He may have only had three records released in the formative mid-fifties period of Memphis music, but they were on Sun and Meteor, the flagship labels of the new music - and they were all wonderful.

Malcolm was the rarest of rockabilly singers - a man who was sure enough of his own direction to create a style of his own.

This CD collects together all of Yelvington's issued and unissued music from the 1950s, from the R&B influenced Drinkin' Wine Spo-Dee-O-Dee and the western swing of Just Rollin' Along to the iconic Rockin' With My Baby and unreleased cuts that should have been classics - Way Down Blues, Goodbye Marie, and the clever It's My Trumpet. Malcolm never got the chance to properly blow his own trumpet. This CD finally does it for him.
