INFORMATION

Carl Perkins was the best guitar player who ever set foot in the SUN studio. He was no slouch as a singer and song writer also. Until Johnny Cash and Jerry Lee Lewis became megastars, nobody – and that includes Elvis – sold more records at SUN than Carl Perkins.

But Carl was so much more than Blue Suede Shoes. In addition to eight singles and an album's worth of material, Carl left behind a treasure trove of recorded material consisting of unissued titles and studio outtakes. Many of these tracks have appeared over the years but, incredibly, there were still vintage recordings awaiting discovery. We present them here for the first time, along with every known Carl Perkins outtake from the SUN era. Finally – it's all here in one place, along with some delicious moments of studio chatter, false starts and song fragments. You've never heard Carl like this before.

We also offer some memorable home recordings from the SUN era – some of them previously unissued. They show Carl playing and singing in the privacy of his own living room. The accompanying liner notes written by SUN historians Hank Davis and Scott Parker provide extensive song-by-song commentary to bring you even closer to the music. The booklet also includes rare photos, and revealing and previously unpublished interviews with Carl's son Stan and drummer WS Holland.
